

Ukrainian Week Opening Today

Exhibition of Native Books And Handicrafts Featured

For the sixth consecutive year, the Ukrainian Club is sponsoring a week of cultural and social events on and for the McGill campus. For this event, the Club has invited prominent artists and has arranged various lectures, exhibits and social evenings.

Ukrainian Week is under the patronage of Dr. F. Cyril James and the Hon. Michael Starr, Canadian Minister of Labour.

This year's Ukrainian Week, which continues until Nov. 22, will be officially opened in the Club Room today at 1 pm by Dr. M. V. Roscoe, Warden of R.V.C.

Mrs. B. Simmons will be present to accept a large number of books and monographs donated by the Ukrainian Club to the Redpath Library. The opening ceremonies will also mark the beginning of the exhibit of Ukrainian books and handicrafts which will continue until Thursday afternoon in the Clubroom. Authentic Ukrainian costumes, embroidered artwork, and hand painted Easter eggs will be on display in addition to all the books on Ukrainian subjects from the Redpath Library.

On Thursday at 8:30 pm in Redpath Hall there will be a concert featuring Eugene Husaduk, a well-known violinist and former concert master of the Haydn Symphony Orchestra in Vienna, the choir "Ukraina" under the direction of Prof. N. Horodovenco, and Miss Luba Zuk, pianist.

The National Clubs Night, which is being sponsored by the Council of National Student Organizations with the Ukrainian and Cosmopolitan clubs organizing, will be held during the Ukrainian Week on Friday at 8:30 pm in the Union Ballroom. The purpose of this event is to

Campaign Starts, Broomball Girls In Charity Game

Coaches Joe Irvin and Willie Lambert, of the Redmen Football squad have been putting handpicked teams of physiotherapy and physical education coeds through training paces in preparation for the broomball match to boost the current Combined Charities drive. The game will take place tomorrow at 1 pm on the Lower Campus.

The charity campaign committee has engaged Dr. Muriel Roscoe of RVC to toss the opening ball, and the McGill Physical Education Department's Dave Copp and Ron Murphy to referee the contest. Andrea Looke and Heather Sinclair have been at work organizing girls of the two departments for the clash.

Meanwhile, reports Campaign chairman Peter Cundill, the first day of campus canvass has progressed smoothly but unevenly. Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity has chalked up a $43 total with every house member a contributor, but beyond this, few cash sums can be tabulated until Friday when the seven hundred

British Executive At Redpath Hall

McGill Lecture Tonight On Man And Industry

Tonight, at 8:15 pm, in Redpath Hall, Sir Geoffrey Vickers, V.C. will speak on "Well-Being in an Industrial Society." His lecture, which is open to the general public, will deal with various aspects of industrial relations, social work and commerce.

Sir Geoffrey Vickers, V.C.

Since his retirement in 1956, Sir Geoffrey has been Honorary Chairman of the Round Table on Man and Industry, and has been interested in the impact of rapid industrialization of individual and social well-being. He feels that the people who are responsible for making policy should collaborate more closely with social scientists and social workers, and with members of the professions in identifying and understanding human implication in industrial expansion.

A British solicitor, Sir Geoffrey Vickers received his education at Oundle School, Merton College and later, Oxford.

He served as a Major in the first World War, when he won his Victoria Cross, and was a Colonel with the Sherwood Foresters in World War II. In 1941 he was Director Minister of Economic Warfare and then became Deputy Director General, and later Director General of the Advisory Board.

After spending the year 1945 in the Foreign Office, he received his knighthood.

In 1946 he became Legal advisor to the National Coal Board, and held this position for two years, after which he became a member of this council, and remained such until 1948. He was also a member of the London Passenger Transport Board from 1941 to 1946, and has been on the Medical Research Council since 1952.

This lecture, which is open to the public, should be of interest to those concerned with social work, commerce, or Industrial Relations.

California Faculty Shields Classes Against Snoopers

(ACP) — A proposal to ensure academic freedom of students is being studied by University of California (Berkeley) professors.

The issue of academic freedom arose, says the Daily Californian, when during loyalty-security checks, the Civil Service, Military Intelligence and Federal Bureau of Investigation requested information — other than related to the classroom — on prospective employees.

The Professors' proposal is this:

"This faculty asserts that freedom of discussion in the classroom and in academic consultation is fundamental to higher education. The essential freedom of a university can be seriously jeopardized if argument and expression of opinion are inhibited, particularly in those subjects which are held controversial in some quarters and at some moments in history.

"Therefore, reports by a teacher concerning the beliefs, attitudes, activities and associations of a student regarding religion, politics and public affairs in general are not permissible when the reports are based on information acquired by the teacher in the course of instruction or in the course of other student-teacher relations that involves the student academic program."

Employers generally get information on students by asking their University professor and officials.

Explains the Daily Californian: "Questions regarding student performance in the classroom, whether students were lazy, loud-mouths or cheated in examinations, are all logical and answerable according to the committee's (professors') statement. The committee believes, however, that questions regarding politics, religion, activities and associations should not be answered if the University wants to be regarded as free."

"The proposed resolution according to the committee, is not intended to criticize the government's loyalty-security program, but to safeguard students participating in fundamental University instruction and counseling...

"The major reason for this proposal, according to the committee report, is that if students knew their religious and political beliefs were not free from faculty response to loyalty-security inquiries, the timidity that prevails among many to hold different and new ideas and to express them, would erupt into a fear of social pressure."

CANDIDATES FOR SEC AND WOMEN'S UNION

Candidates for positions in the SEC and Women's Union who wish to have their photos, platform and pen-sketches published in The Daily, please note these rules:

1) Candidates for the SEC may use a total of 200 words for their combined pen-sketches and platform, and Women's Union candidates may use a total of 100 words for their pen-sketch.

WARNING: All words over the word limit will be deleted whether or not this occurs in the middle of a sentence.

2) Entries must be signed by the candidate himself and by no more than SIX of his supporters, with names legibly printed beside the signatures.

3) Photos should be glossy portraits of the candidate's head and shoulders. Snapshots will not produce good pictures.

4) Entries must be typewritten on one side of the paper only.

5) Entries should be addressed to the News Editor, McGill Daily and be handed in to George at the Union Tuckshop no later than 1 p.m., Friday, November 21, 1958.

ENTRIES RECEIVED AFTER THIS DEADLINE WILL NOT BE PUBLISHED

This Morning's Headlines News of National and World Significance

MONTREAL, Nov. 17. — The toll is up to 16 in the Oldfield Ave. holocaust of Nov. 9 in which 2 McGill students also lost their lives.

OTTAWA, Nov. 17. — The railways today told the non-operating unions that they will settle their wage dispute in time to avert a Dec. 1 strike unless the Federal Cabinet interferes with a freight rate increase.

OTTAWA, Nov. 17. — The Liberals today accused the Progressive Conservatives of squandering all the post-war budget surpluses built up by the past Liberal governments.

GENEVA, Nov. 17. — Russia today put forth a new proposal to British and American delegates at the conference aimed at ending nuclear weapons tests. The Reds suggested that two separate treaties be negotiated — one banning future tests and the other outlining methods of controlling the ban.

CAIRO, Nov. 17. — The pro-Western premier of Sudan was today overthrown by a military coup.

The Charity Campaign

McGill's Combined Charities Campaign opened yesterday and will run throughout this week. The money collected in the drive will go to recipients on the local, national, and international levels.

Forty per cent of the funds collected will be turned over to charities in the Montreal area. No McGill students, not even those who commute from the residential suburbs, could possibly be unaware of the privation and ugliness which characterizes so much of Montreal.

Ten per cent of the money will go to the Springhill Relief Fund. If the Campaign's goal is reached, this means that the town will receive $500 from McGill — not a large sum, but one which will be of great immediate benefit to the families of the men lost in the mine.

The remaining half of the funds will go the World University Service. This organization serves to provide scholarships for students from underdeveloped countries, and also conferences, tours, and seminars, which allow students to meet and exchange views freely, without restriction as to their national and political affiliations.

Despite the worthiness of their cause, such charity drives have in the past come under fire in these columns for the poor taste and unnecessary gimmickry which they displayed in publicizing their campaigns.

There are some who disagree with charity on principle. The good society, they argue, would find means of alleviating poverty, ignorance, and the effects of accidental tragedy which did not depend on the capriciousness of individual generosity. But this is patently not the good society, and for such students to refrain, on high-minded social principle, from giving a dollar or two to an unquestionably worthwhile cause, would seem to be preserving the principle at the expense of the high-mindedness.

This year's campaign is being conducted without benefit of fanfare. Each student is simply being asked to give what he can, on his own behalf and on behalf of the university. There is no social coercion, no loud publicity, no moralizing harangue.

But for those who wish to give, the opportunity is there.

Book Bargain Basement

The University Book Store is currently holding its third annual paper-back book show in the Walter M. Stewart Room of the Students' Union. There are some 900 titles on display in this exhibition which has become a most popular tradition at McGill.

Many students fail to realize that the University Book Store is not a privately-owned concession but rather a department of McGill operated solely for the benefit of the students. The profits are always devoted to the support of student activities such as the McGill Conference on World Affairs.

The paper-backs on display in the Union are but a sampling of the thousands available today. They represent one of the greatest achievements in the history of our culture since the discovery of the printing press. Through these inexpensive publications, the world's treasures can become part of everyone's library. No one should appreciate these paper-backs more than the student who has so many books to read and so very little money to spend.

The Paper-Back Book show provides an excellent opportunity for students to view and purchase some of the outstanding works of our time and all time at "student prices".

Letters To The Daily

Socialized Engineer

To The Editor:

In reference to your editorial entitled "Sterility of Social Science" I would like to supplement the comments of H. Long, whose letter appeared in yesterday's Daily.

It is not so much social science that is sterile as the interpretation and application of it. In an era of blossoming advances in the field of physical engineering, the applied social scientist, or the "social engineer", is far behind in his efforts to benefit mankind. The interpretations he derives are inherently sterile and his applications, weak. More stress should be placed on the fundamentals of human understanding and love rather than on selfish concepts of belongingness, security, conformity, and other equally ridiculous theories.

The "hero" of the social engineer is the supposedly well-rounded gentleman who owns a current model Buick Special, reads the same portions of his newspaper each day, votes uniformly, and owns an attractive home in 'Suburbia'. I, for one, would rather live in a world of individualists and radicals, than in one comprised of monomaniacs.

"Disgusted Engineer"

Answers Criticism

To the Editor:

I would have answered Mr. Miller's letter before, but I have been busy. He misunderstands me, I fear. Let me make myself more plain. I still firmly applaud the lack of this odious notion, "Campus Spirit", but yet more firmly do I applaud those members of this University that take part in the wider life which University provides. That is why, in my small way, I have tried to "do things" on Campus. There is a world of difference between the concepts of "mass drive" and "individual initiative". The former I loathe, the latter I cherish as perhaps the most important facet of our way of life. It is the difference between taking your exercise with the Gaderene Swine; walking on the cliff, and deciding on your own account whether to run over the edge.

And since you hate to compare McGill to other Universities, why do it? Must the Universities enter the race to keep up with the Joneses? As far as I'm concerned, if McGill is different from other Universities, it's made a good start, and should go right ahead and become unique.

Please believe me when I say that there is nothing more important than extra-curricular activities except your degree, and after three years in the big wide world, experience learnt in those activities is very much more useful than a bit of parchment. A degree is necessary to impress an interviewer, but he won't promote you for it.

No, the emphasis as far as I'm concerned is on the individual. I'm all for getting and doing things. I just don't like having little men barking at my door telling me what to do.

To The Editor:

Who is the idiot who invented the new method of advertising we've lately been subjected to on this campus?

Who is the budding young genius who is using the campus as a lab for advertising 278 W?

Blaring out of a loudspeaker is great for a carnival or a parade. It is also useful in the case of an emergency. But this is a most humiliating form of advertising. Here, we are — supposedly more intelligent people than the average — subjecting ourselves to mass propaganda fit for a herd of cattle.

Shame! Shame!

Book Store Now Sponsoring Show Of Paper-Backs

"There isn't enough room in the book store for the extra books that should be carried. This exhibit is to expose the students to more books." These words, voiced by Mr. Ramsay, manager of the McGill University Book Store, encompassed the cause and effect of the Third Annual Paperback Book Show, open this week from 12-8 pm in the Walter M. Stewart Room.

There are over 900 titles ranging through the humanities, philosophy, engineering, mathematics, theater, jazz, music, and history of religious philosophy. This is the first year that there are displays prepared by the McGill Christian Fellowship and the Student Christian Movement. The books exhibited by these two groups are of a religious nature; and are available by ordering. The remainder range in price from $1.35 to $2.50 and can be bought on the spot.

Boston Physician Delivers Lecture Tomorrow Night

Dr Paul Dudley White will be the guest speaker at the second annual Duff Memorial Lecture in Moyse Hall tomorrow night at 8:30 pm.

A well-known Boston physician, Dr. White was attending physician to President Eisenhower. He has received many prizes and awards for his work in the field of cardiology and is now President of the International Society of Cardiology.

The topic of Dr. White's address will be "Candidates for Disease—their identification and protection".

The Duff Memorial Lectures were initiated in 1957 by the Medical Undergraduate Society in honour of G. Lyman Duff, former Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, who held the position of Strathcona Professor of Pathology until his death in 1956.

Casting Starts For Red and White's "Reign or Shine"

"Reign or Shine", this year's Red and White Revue will begin casting today at 1 pm in the Union. Dancers are asked to report from 1-4 pm in the ballroom. Actors and singers will meet tonight from 8-11 pm in the workshop.

Work on the script and music has almost been completed. This year's Red and White Revue has 33 speaking parts and offers vast opportunities to McGill students to act, sing and dance in a wide variety of roles.

Jugglers, acrobats and other specialty acts are also needed. Bill Yule, choreographer of Cross-Canada Hit Parade and director-choreographer of this year's Revue, will audition potential cast members personally.

Theme of "Reign or Shine" is still top secret, but the show will be a full-fledged musical comedy with a solid plot line. The production will have a total cast of approximately 50.

Grand Ball Ends Ukrainian Week

promote better mutual understanding between the National clubs and this is the primary ideal of the Ukrainian Week.

On Saturday the McGill Ukrainian Club will be host to a conference of the Ukrainian Canadian University Students' Union with guest speakers and delegates from Universities throughout eastern Canada.

The Ukrainian Week is concluded Saturday evening in the Grand Ball at the Windsor Hotel at which many McGill professors and prominent members of the Ukrainian community are guests. Tickets for the Ball are available at a special price to McGill Students at DU 1-0928. All other events are free of charge.

the standard of the architectural course which, at present leads only to an ordinary B.A. Degree, and to develop the study of architecture as a discipline rather than as a technical subject.

The critical and analytical powers of the students will be extended somewhat further than at present by the introduction of a more thorough study of the history of architecture; broad and generalized lecture courses will be avoided and, wherever possible, a specialized knowledge of members of other faculties is to be made available.

Another completely new feature of the course is the introduction of a series of lectures on Building Science which it is hoped will strengthen those lectures already given on the construction of buildings.

At the moment most architects stay three years in Cambridge. They usually complete the final two years of the A.R.I.B.A. course elsewhere as the Diploma course here does not exempt them from the final examination of the Royal Institute of British Architects.

The lecture program itself has been extended, as 44 lectures have been added to the Department's present list. The reliance it places on the assistance of other faculties is shown by the fact that 62 lectures will be given by visiting lecturers or members of the University outside the Fine Arts Faculty.

Man Ages More Slowly at High Speeds—Scientist

The most tantalizing prospect in man's space life — the possibility that clocks slow down and men age more slowly at very high speeds — was endorsed several days ago by Dr. E.R. Goltra, an aviation medicine expert.

By all the rules known today, time cannot be turned backward. But as the speed of light, 186,000 miles per second, is approached, all evidence, further proved by recent experiments at Columbia University, indicates that time does slow down — compared with earthly time.

The physical effect of this concept is illustrated by two identical clocks. One remains on earth, the other takes off in a space ship at, say, half the speed of light. After ten years the earth-bound clock shows ten years have passed, but the space ship clock shows only 7.7 years of elapsed time.

If the space ship reaches 90 per cent of the speed of light, the space clock shows only four years of elapsed time, while ten years have passed on earth.

Using identical twins instead of identical clocks in the space experiment, the travelling twin would come home years younger than his stay-at-home brother, depending on his speed through space.

Philosophical and biological objections to this concept have been heard. However, the problem is not of immediate concern, but only of academic interest at this time. Missile men are several fundamental steps away from rocket motors that can push men to such unbelievable speeds, as explained by Dr. Goltra.

Novice Debaters Chosen to Attend U.S. Tournament

Among the three hundred students taking part in a debating tournament in Burlington this week and will be twelve McGill students. The latter were chosen from the members of the Inter-collegiate Team on the basis of debating trials held during the past week. The topic debated then, and the one to be debated in Burlington, is Resolved: That the further development of nuclear weapons be prohibited by international agreement. Each of the students will debate this topic five times throughout the weekend, at times taking the negative and sometimes the affirmative.

Those who will be representing McGill are: Morty Zuckerman, Bertrand Lacombe, Billy Fraiberg, Duggald Christie, Henry Moscovitch, Lawrence Davis, Jonah Goldstein, Joel Bell, Joyce Lecker, Maxime Schwartz, Abe Hartman, and Lillian Caplan. The remaining members of the Novice collegiate Team are: Vivian Paskal, Michael Stein, Steve Abrahams and Ruthie Voss.

Braves Open Puck Season

The McGill Intercollegiate Hockey team start their season's travel today. The Braves move temporarily into St. Jean where they will be entertained during sixty minutes of hockey by the College Militaire Royal.

Today's game is the first of approximately a dozen the inters will play. Scheduled so far are two home-and-home series; one against MacDonald College and one with Sir George. Other tentative games are against Bishop's, Queen's, and Metropolitan League teams.

This year's edition of the Braves is built almost entirely of newcomers. However one of the hold-overs is Von Zubin, who was a stalwart with last year's team. Von Zubin will play centre along with Flam. Both of these men are good prospects for next year's Redmen.

Other forwards who have been showing well to date during the week of practices already held are Grant, Sealy, and Mosely. On defence, MacDonald has been going well as has Vaillancourt in nets.

The team will be bolstered by a few additions from the Redmen that should arrive sometime this week. According to Coach Dave Copp, the Braves should end the season with more wins than losses in their cap.

WAA Meeting

Today at 1 pm in the RVC Common Room the Women's Athletic Association will open its doors to the entire female population at McGill.

Nadia Pavlychenko, President of the WAA will chair the meeting. Miss Muoro, Miss Bean and Miss Dubrule, advisors of the Association, will be present as well as the presidents and managers of the various sports.

Pat Stanfield, tennis, Anne Barnett, soccer and Georgia Whitman, archery, will give short reports on their seasons just completed.

To highlight the meeting awards will be presented to the following girls, who as freshettes earned Senior and Junior "M"s:

BASKETBALL (Senior "M"s): Barb Gatehouse, Helen Karpowicz, Jean Ann McKellar, Geraldine McMichael, Dorothy Turnbull; (Junior "M"s): Anna Bey, Judy Davis, Donna Hill, Ann Lafleur, Heather Macleod, Bonnie Stamos, Helen Rodiewicz.

SKIING: (Senior "M") Gail Eakin; (Junior "M") Linda Hermitage, Marion MacDougall.

SOCCER: (Junior "M"s) Gail Eakin, Lynne Francis, Diana Gooch, Marion MacDougall, Sonia Newman, Barbara Richards.

SWIMMING (Senior "M"s) Barbara Fay, Sherrill Rand, Jane Walher, Kathleen Williamson, Pat Orser; (Senior and Junior "M").

TENNIS: (Senior "M"s) Ann Lafleur, Marion MacDougall.

VOLLEYBALL: (Senior "M"s) Myrna Salbil, Kathleen Williamson.

McGill Hosts Mac Ducks

McGill co-eds will play host to MacDonald College in an extra-mural Swimming Tournament tonight at 8 pm. This meet will provide outside competition for our aqua-maids after two months of swimming against each other, and it will give Coach Gladys Bean an idea of how they will fare in the Intercollegiate Tournament at Kingston later this month.

Results of this meet will determine the final choice of swimmers to represent McGill, so keen competition should develop not only against MacDonald but also against one another.

Swimming for McGill will be Jane Walker, Diane Matheson, Barbara Fay, Susan Garfinkle, Leslie Ann Leuthwaite, Sherrill

WOMEN'S HOCKEY

Due to the semi-annual meeting of the WAA, the Hockey practice scheduled today for 1 pm has been cancelled. Today is the last day for signing up for the Intramural League. Please do so by 2 pm. An intramural League consisting of at least eight teams will start its games shortly.

Rand, Nancy Keare, Corrie Ooman, Jean Simpson, Ann Henders, and Pauline McCullagh.

Macdonald will be represented by Elizabeth Meade, Barbara Lapin, Margaret Orser, Sue Bernadin and Ann Hewitt.

The events will consist of a 200 yard medley, 50 yard back, 50 yard butterfly, 50 yard free, and 200 yard relay. In addition there will be diving and synchronized exhibitions.
